

ALEXANDRIA.

SATURDAY EVENING, MAY 16.

IMPEACHMENT. It will be seen by our telegraphic dispathes that in the High Court today, Impeachment failed for want of the requisite two-thirds vote upon the Eleventh article the article about which there was so much doubt expressed. This is considered as a virtual acquittal of the President.

As a specimen of the manner in which 'public opinion" is solicited, in the Impeachment case, the following dispatch from Mr. Schenck, of Ohio, to a Radical organ in West Virginia, is published:

"WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12, 1868 .-"Great danger to the peace of the country and the Republican cause, it impeachment fails. Send to your Senators public opinion by resolutions, letters, and delegations.

ROBERT C. SCHENCK, Chairman." Was there ever a more impudent attempt to manufacture a pressure upon men sworn to try a case according to the law and the testimony ?0180 onl 18

The Washington Chronicle heads some re cent proceedings of the Methodist Episcopal Conference at Chicago .- "The Methodist Church for Conviction." The Baltimore Sun remarking upon the extreme impropriety of "politicians endeavoring to profane a church organization by using it as they would an ordinary political caucus or convention, for the promotion of miserable party purposes, says, "exery reflecting member of the large society represented by the Methodist Episcopal Conference must feel that the attempt to use the Church in this way is an insult to the church membership and a desecration of religion."

The New Yorld Word publishes a letter from Thomas Jefferson, in 1801, to Edward Livingston, in which he directed a prosecution against Duane to be discontinued, on the ground that the act of Congress, (the Sedition law) under which the prosecution was commenced, was unconstitutional, and that "he would treat it as a nullity." Mr. Johnson merely took measures to test the constitutionality of a law before the Courts, and did not assume the ground of Mr. Jefterson.

Col. W. B. Randelph, for many years past Chief Clerk of the Treasurer's office, U.S. Treasury Department, died yesterday morning at his residence in Washington, after an illness of several weeks, in the 81st year of his age. Col. Randolph received an appointment in the Treasury Department in 1808, and for the past twenty years has been connected with the Treasurer's office, over twenty years of which he has been Chief Clerk.

Mr. Garfield, of Ohio, made a speech, yesterday, in the House of Representatives, on the subject of trade and finances. Important subjects, it must be admitted-subjects very important. But, then, in these days, what are they compared to impeachment and the Chicago Convention? Mr. G., may as well bottle up his remarks, and not uncork the bot tle, until the politicians finish their plans.

The President of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, on Tuesday lectured before the Farmers' Club of that city, in favor of horse flesh as food. At the close of his lecture, a resolution was moved, recommending horse-flesh as food; but, to the astonishment of its advocates, it was laid on the table by an almost unanimous vote.

NEWS OF THE DAY,

'To show the very age and body of the Times."

The Chicago Convention begins to overshadow the topic of impeachment. The great topic of interest is the question of the Vice Presidency. Will the failure to convict the President attract sufficient sympathy for Mr. Wade to make him the candidate for Vice President? or will the contest between the Western cradidates for the position result in a compromise upon an Eastern man-Curtin, Wilson or Hamlin? All the speculation upon the action at Chicago is upon the assumption of the acquittal of the President.

The Senate was not in session yesterday. In the House of Representatives Mr. Woodward, tried to get before the House, as a question of privilege, resolutions for a Committee of Inquiry into the conduct of the Missouri delegation in attempting to influence the course of Senator Henderson on impeachment. The speaker quashed the matter by saying it was not a privileged question, as the House was or competent to take notice of the infringements of its privileges. Whilst the matter was up Mr. Loan stated, on the part of the Missouri delegation, that all the interviews between the Missouri members of the House and the Senator referred to, were at the request of the latter, and it was at his instance and request that the letter that was made the basis of this resolution was written and signed. The subject had scarcely been disposed of when Mr. Woodward again raised a personal question by complaining that Mr. Pile, of Missouri, was making faces at him! Nothing came of this also. After disposing of some private bills the House went into Committee of the Whole, and was addressed by Mr. Garfield, of Ohio, on the finances.

At Cincinnati, a few years since, an unsophisticated darkey waited upon a certain military gentleman with a bill of $19 15 for washing done at the camp hospital, which, after undergoing a rigorous scrutiny by the officer, was returned with the following explanation, which the astonished son of Ethiopia listened to with an equal amount of wonder and perplexity:

"This bill," said the military gentleman, "will first have to be sent to the Quartermaster General at Washington, and he will report to the Adjutant General, and he will lay it before the Secretary of War for his approval .-The Adjutant being satisfied, it will be sent to and sent it to the Secretary of the Treasury, who will at once dispatch an order to the co-

He thinks the Republican party, by denouncing the bailing of Mr. Davis, "flung away a golding opportunity for strengthening itself and for giving peace to the country." He also justifies his gift to Washington College on the ground that he had given thousands to aid in the education of the blacks of the South, but had given nothing to her white schools. He was, therefore, glad to give to the one which was founded by the "Father of his Country. He says the North should eagerly avail herself of every opportunity to express good feeling towards the South.
